Manalto International’s e-commerce platform has undergone a full redesign, incorporating features such as live streaming capabilities to provide users with a full and invigorating experience. The new e-commerce platform will be in sync with Manalto International e-stores and boutiques to provide the best quality products to our affiliated stores across of all our platforms. In combination with any offline packages which can be optimised, our member service providers are able to restock their product inventory freely and without constraint.

with our projects members in order to assess the demands and increased services to the teams located in our headquarters.

In May 2021, Manalto International in cooperation with the Mahler Winery Partner Event, successfully established a Tourism & Wine program, whereby members could become part owners and in turn, increase the service and sales across our e-platforms. As such, our members will experience a better life after retirement, whilst receiving the bonus of this new upgrade. To date, we have received overwhelming feedback from our excited investors, shareholders and members.

Manalto International and our associated companies, subsidiaries and affiliations have always insisted on marketing our products with a Chinese-centric approach, incorporating cultural characteristics and promoting the internationalisation of the Chinese culture. The company has been in discussions and conducted multiple explorations with global institutions and related industry experts to gain more in-depth understanding of marketing to a Chinese audience.

Amongst the many developments throughout the first half of 2021, Manalto International together with Shihai Dongtian Group, created a cave wine that is beloved by the Chinese people. This creation reflects many characteristics of Chinese culture and appropriately so, the name bestowed on this magnificent creation is titled "Xi Jiu", which translated into English means "Happiness Wine". We expect the official launch date of Xi Jiu to be September 9, 2021.

When asked about the future developments of Manalto International, Chairman Mr Cao Qi said "We shall continue to actively craft creations that represent China and take a path of 'customised cooperation'. At the same time, we shall strive to produce greater value and benefits to our shareholders and members. We aim for Manalto International to reach a market cap in the tens of billions of dollars within the next three years.
